THE LATEST SENSATION.

The "Wolf and the Lamb" Back in the Fold.

Return of the Rev. Horace Cooke with his Young Infatuation—The Bohemian Press in a Nightmare—The Pastor in Prison—The Pupil with her Parents.

The New York World of this morning says:—The story of the Rev. Horace Cooke is not yet old. Incidents have already been sufficiently common, and some of them have been familiar.

The joy of Miss Johnson's father, and mother, and brother, and sisters at her return was unbounded. They were only too glad to welcome her back to their home and their love, and when they became positively assured that she came back to them as pure as when she left, their hearts were filled with unspeakable gladness.

Where the reverend gentleman was between his disappearance on Friday evening and his reappearance on Tuesday it is difficult at the present moment to tell, but permitting this to remain in his history to remain unfiled for the present, the narrative of his adventures may be taken up yesterday afternoon at where he registered his name and address preparatory to taking apartments. The name given was that of "Henry P. Daly, of St. Louis, Mo." After registering his name he turned round and asked some one to come out with him. His invitation was accepted by one of the gentlemen present, who, however, had no previous acquaintance with him, and was in total ignorance of his object.

The manner of "Mr. Daly" immediately changed. His face became livid with anger. Rushing towards the speaker he intended to, he rushed towards the speaker, and, as he advanced, he said, "Who wrote that article, sir?"

After a few moments, in which Mr. Cooke indulged in threats of a similar strain, an officer came, and he was accordingly given in charge. He was then brought to the where he was accused of creating a disturbance in the publication office of the World and assaulting one of its editors.

"By Jingo," muttered one of the admiring policemen who stood by, "He looks more like a Russian officer than a parson. He's a dashing fellow, and I wouldn't mind falling in love with him myself if I was a woman."

The charge was briefly told—that he had assaulted, without provocation, a gentleman passing through a portion of the establishment in which he was employed, threatening further violence to other attendants of the same party.

book, apparently well lined, was drawn from his breast-pocket. His friends, it is stated, took from him a deadly weapon.

After being locked up in the cell, Cooke sent a slip of paper, on which was written the following:—"Let me out in the passage-way, and I will give you $10." The words were plainly written in a handsome hand, and did not indicate any physical nervousness.

The general belief is now that Miss Johnson was a young religious enthusiast, and that Mr. Cooke, who is a young man of some talents, and which, as is well known, often results from the development of an almost fanatical degree of so-called religious ardor.

She stated to her father that Mr. Cooke went to the school-room on Friday afternoon last, and made arrangements to leave immediately. She obeyed, and they left that evening for Philadelphia. Having arrived there her "flighty" companion went to a hotel and hired a room, to which he escorted his youthful charge.

The story told by Cooke was that of a boy's love. "When I was eighteen years old I was engaged to be married to a girl about my own age. I loved her devotedly, and had every reason to believe that my affections were returned.

When we were moved to Seventh street I became acquainted with Mattie Johnson. In form and feature she was the counterpart of my first love, resembling her in all respects. I became infatuated beyond control, and it was utterly beyond my power to resist the temptation to try and make her mine.

But although loving her to desperation, I never had any criminal intercourse with her; and, so help me God, she is as pure and innocent this night as an angel in Heaven. Oh! I was a fool to do such a thing. Don't palliate my crime, for I have had my punishment, and I have learned my lesson.

The full correspondence between Secretary Fish and Minister Roberts on the Cuban business has just been published, and is taken from the following account of the execution of Messrs. Speakman and Wyeth, as sent by General Sickles to the Secretary of State:—

It appears that Charles Speakman, a citizen of the United States, residing in Aurora, Ind., where he has a sailing vessel, was taken on board the schooner Grapeshot, of New York, signing articles for Falmouth, in Jamaica, in good faith, knowing nothing of the objects of the voyage.

Speakman, who had a quarrel with the captain about the engagement, was forcibly put on shore with the Cubans. They were soon attacked by the Spanish troops, routed, and dispersed. Speakman, taking no part in the fight, took the first opportunity to give himself up to the Spanish authorities, and on the 16th of June was brought to Santiago, subjected to a private examination before the Fiscal, in the presence of an interpreter, and condemned to death immediately.

The plans for the new State Department building, prepared by Messrs. A. B. Mullett, Supervising Architect of the Treasury Department, and Edward Clark, Architect in charge of the Capitol Extension, have been approved by the commission, consisting of Secretaries Fish, Belknap, Cox, and General Michler, appointed to examine the same and select a site for the building.

of age, and very respectfully connected, called in the same schooner Grapeshot, of Falmouth, Jamaica, for the benefit of his health. On leaving the real destination of the schooner he energetically protested against taking part in the enterprise. When the expedition disembarked he was forced to land with the Cubans, and took the first opportunity to surrender himself to the Spanish authorities.

Admiral Hoff, in his report to the Navy Department, which is accompanied by all the evidence necessary to support his conclusions, declares that these men were sacrificed through "the weakness of the Spanish official at this city (Santiago de Cuba) in yielding to the demands of the Catalan volunteers, and of misconstruing the intentions of the United States Consul."

JAIL DELIVERY.

Two Notorious Desperadoes Escape from a County Prison. The Chicago Republican of January 11 has the following:—About 8 o'clock last evening two notorious ruffians confined in cell No. 80 of the County Jail effected their escape from that institution.

The following persons have been ordered to report to Commander Thomas O. Selfridge, for the purpose of accompanying the Darien surveying expedition:—J. A. Sullivan, Esq., and A. T. Mosman, Esq., Assistants U. S. Coast Survey; H. G. Ogden, Esq., and H. L. Marland, Esq., Sub-Assistants U. S. Coast Survey; Timothy H. O'Sullivan, Esq., Photographer; and Mr. L. Karber, Draughtsman.

The frequency of such escapes from places of confinement in this city tends to show a lack of capability somewhere. Either the prisons are improperly constructed, or the guard placed over prisoners is insufficient. One man placed in the jailer's office cannot, if he would, prevent such escapes as that of last evening.

ARCTIC EXPLORATION.

Letter to Captain Hall from the Bremen Committee of the German Polar Expedition. The following communication will explain itself:—BREMEN, Dec. 20, 1869.—To Captain Charles Francis Hall, Arctic Explorer, New York—Honorable Sir:—As Secretary of the Bremen Committee of the German Arctic Exploring Expedition, I have the honor to send you herewith a short account of the plan of our expedition, which left Bremen on the 15th of June, 1869, in two ships, a steamer and a sailing vessel.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Naval Affairs. Special Despatch to The Evening Telegraph. WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—It is understood that several naval vessels have been ordered to San Domingo, to reinforce those already there. The United States steamer Alaska (a new steamer, carrying ten guns), fitted out at Boston, will, after completing her trial trip, proceed to New York, previous to her departure for the Asiatic fleet.

The following persons have been ordered to report to Commander Thomas O. Selfridge, for the purpose of accompanying the Darien surveying expedition:—J. A. Sullivan, Esq., and A. T. Mosman, Esq., Assistants U. S. Coast Survey; H. G. Ogden, Esq., and H. L. Marland, Esq., Sub-Assistants U. S. Coast Survey; Timothy H. O'Sullivan, Esq., Photographer; and Mr. L. Karber, Draughtsman.

Either the prisons are improperly constructed, or the guard placed over prisoners is insufficient. One man placed in the jailer's office cannot, if he would, prevent such escapes as that of last evening.

FROM BALTIMORE.

A Priest's Remains Lying in State. Special Despatch to The Evening Telegraph. BALTIMORE, Jan. 13.—The remains of the Reverend Father James Dolan, of St. Patrick's Church, at Fell's Point, who died yesterday evening, are now lying in state, and thousands are visiting the corpse.

The Capitalization Tax. John W. Garrett, of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co., answers Governor Bowie's message, and gives the reasons for not paying the capitalization tax on the Washington Branch. He believes it unfair and unconstitutional, and asks only for the same privileges and rights given to the main trunk. He wants the whole matter legally tested.

Railway Subsidy. Some sections of the ordinance giving thirteen hundred thousand dollars to complete the Western Maryland Railroad passed the first branch of City Councils. Its passage entire is sure.

The Maryland State Treasurer. The State Treasurer is still the bone of contention at Annapolis. Merriman's chances are in the ascendant. If no agreement on Fowler or Merriman is arrived at, Joshua Van Sant, of Baltimore, has the next best chance as a third party.

Baltimore City Register Elected. John A. Robb has been elected City Register of Baltimore, in place of John H. Barnes. He was Barnes' assistant or deputy.

The Telegraph Strikers Hold Out. The telegraph strikers here all resolutely hold out. They say the company's despatches about their going back are all incorrect.

James McKay, were appointed to proceed to New York at once, and close the contract on the basis already communicated to the board for the construction of the road.
